The Force Bill is an issue.

The Columbian celebration was magnificently carried out in all parts of the country last Friday.

Judge Hazlerigg has never done anything to warrant the distrust of the people. He has proven faithful in every instance.

There was a very large registration in New York last week, which is considered a favorable indication for the Democrats.

The Legislature last week got the Revenue and Taxation bill into such shape as to be agreeable to both Houses and passed it. They will adjourn Saturday until November 15.

One of the unsolved enigmas of the age is why any poor man will vote the Republican ticket. There is nothing in its principles or plans for anybody but the large manufacturer, the office-holders and spoils-men.

Protected from all danger of competition from the outside world the millionaire manufacturers of this country busy themselves organizing trusts to keep up the prices and squeeze out small manufacturers.

"Yaller dogs" is the way the Iron-ton papers call the men who refuse to respond to the party lash and come up and vote the straight Republican ticket. Of course it is a specially effective manner of winning them back.—Portsmouth Times.

The sincerest sympathy of every person in our Union goes out to President Harrison in his sorrow over the loss of one of the noblest members of noble American womanhood—his wife. She has graced the exalted position of "First Lady of the Land" and the place was honored in the manner in which she filled it.

Hon John S. Patton, Democratic candidate for Circuit Judge in the district up the river, is a gentleman of untarnished record, sober, honorable, and above stooping to any mean advantage or dirty scheming. Would that as much could be said of all candidates for the judiciary, of whatever party!

If you want to satisfy yourself as to the position of the Republican party on the Force Bill, take their platform of 1888 and 1889 and compare the portions bearing upon it. The two platforms are identical. The position to-day is identical with that of 1888, which the Republican Congressmen in their present Congress construed as the party to the passage of the infamous Force Bill. The platform of the two parties is exactly the same and the result is unmistakably identical.

Farmers will you vote for or will you vote against the party that makes laws which render it possible for millionaire manufacturers to charge you $18.00 for a farming implement which they ship to South America and sell for $9.00? The Republican party does that very thing. If the manufacturer can sell that implement for $9.00 in South America he can do the same here, can he not? He can, but he is not compelled to. All competition is shut out by that "protective" tariff and he can charge you what he pleases. What do you owe to those greedy manufacturers, that you should foster their robbery by supporting the Republican politicians who make these wrongs possible?

This cry raised by the Republicans that Cleveland, while President, was opposed to pensions is without foundation in fact. Gen. Black, Cleveland's Commissioner of Pensions, did more for the old soldiers than any other Commissioner, before or since. True, Mr. Cleveland did veto some pension claims, but any honest man who is acquainted with the circumstances will say that he did right in every instance. By his action he protected the rights of those justly entitled to received pension. No man with a just claim on the government was afraid to present it to the Cleveland administration. There are men all over the country who will testify that they got a hearing on claims presented to Mr. Black which they had failed on through years previous.

Take from the Republican party the votes of the negroes, the rich manufacturers, the floaters and the office seekers and how many intelligent supporters have you left? In looking at this matter keep in mind the fact that Cleveland received in 1888, 38,017 majority of the voters in the United States, and that the Democracy received a majority of 268,550 voters of the United States in the Congressional elections of 1890. You will readily see that the Republican party has nothing like an even share of the unselfish intelligence of the country endorsing its claims. Take away only the negro vote and the Republican party could never hope to win. Then the "party of intelligence" owes its place in power to a race of people whom the Almighty did not endow with enough intelligence to comprehend the simplest question of the day!

A Kentucky Candidate.

Every bit of information received by the Times on the subject, confirms the impression that Congressman Paynter, who is the Democratic candidate in the district across the river, will be elected by a greater majority than he received in either of his two previous races. This is as it should be. The office of congressman is one in which experience is of peculiar value and only for the gravest reasons should a tried representative be exchanged for a new one. Outside of this, however, there are unmistakable grounds upon which T. H. Paynter should be continued in the service of his people. He has been diligent in meeting their every demand and faithful and successful in prosecuting their local interests. He stands square with every principle in which they are most deeply concerned, and his skill and ability in championing them have given him a reputation that has already passed far beyond the bounds of his district.

It is not to be wondered at that new and valiant recruits are joining his invincible column every day.—Portsmouth Times.

Republicans Praise Paynter.

Postmaster Davis, editor of the Public Ledger, the Republican organ of this district, was in Washington City last May, and in a letter to his paper, published May 20, said: Hon. Thomas H. Paynter is popular with everybody, and I can cheerfully bear testimony to his efficiency, having had frequent occasion to call upon him in behalf of the public service."

Public Ledger September 7: Hon. Thomas H. Paynter, present Congressman from this district, was nominated at Carlisle yesterday for a third term. The "trade of politics" has become so perverted that one can not do justice to an opponent without having his motives impugned; but it is only fair to say that Mr. Paynter has made a good Representative. So far as we know he has been attentive to the wishes of his constituency, and business entrusted to his care has received prompt attention."

THAT FORCE BILL.

Briefly, Here is What it is.

The Force bill gives to Republican Federal officers the control of all elections. It takes from the States the substance of the right, reserved in the Constitution, to determine and judge of the qualifications of voters. The assertion that it is to secure full and free elections is mere pretense. The chief supervisors are to be appointed for life, and, as the electoral machinery is put into their hands, it will be for years under the control of Republican partisans, no matter what may be the character of the Administration.

The officer who is to be in charge of elections is called the Chief Supervisor of Elections. There is to be one for each judicial district. He is a judicial officer, for he is a United States Commissioner. He is to have charge of the Federal officers who are to be appointed to control elections. He is to examine voters under oath and receive returns. He is to have charge of the deputy marshals appointed to assist him, and will have absolute power to order arrests.

There are to be three supervisors, subordinate to the chief supervisor, two of whom shall be of the same political party, and these supervisors are to conduct the election.

A partisan could appoint two sound republicans and one Democrat who was a cripple or too ill to be at the polls. The bill provides, in such a case, that all the duties shall be performed by the two remaining supervisors; in other words, the two Republican supervisors are to manage the election.

Arrangements are made in the bill whereby local party committees may practically name the supervisors, so that the most servicable party workers may be employed. This is effected by a provision authorizing persons to apply to the chief supervisor for appointments. Care is taken also that supervisors may be appointed on the very eve of an election, in order, doubtless, that complaints against the character of the appointees may be avoided.

The chief supervisor is permitted to name double the number of supervisors that can be required in his whole judicial district. In this way the Republican party can pay an army of workers at the polls from the Federal Treasury.

Supervisors may be transferred from one part of a Congressional district to another, so that the voters may have no acquaintance with the armed men who are "guarding, supervising and scrutinizing" their election. They may be negroes or outlaws.

If the State officers, obeying their own law, refuse to receive a proffered ballot, the Federal officers may first direct them to do so, and then, on refusal, may themselves receive and deposit the ballot.

The secret ballot laws are further infringed by the Force bill because it requires the presence of the supervisors within the polling-place. The Australian system excludes all persons but the local election officers and watchers. This provision is one of the most important features of the new law, for it keeps the workers away from the voters. It is intended by the Force bill that this safeguard shall be broken down, and that, in the form of supervisors, Republican workers, paid by the Federal Government, shall have access to the voter.

The proposed secrecy of the new law is also infringed because the supervisors are authorized to accept rejected ballots, to write upon them the names of the voters offering them and to count them. Thus the Republican supervisors may hold their own election, receiving the votes of those found to be disqualified by State officers. All this will be done in opposition to State laws which require secrecy and a single ballot-box, and it will effect the result of State as well as of Federal elections.

The Board of Canvassers of the Congressional vote is a body which makes the canvass for the United States. It is appointed by the Circuit Judge, who is dragged into party politics by nearly every section of this extraordinary bill. The board consists of three, two of whom can be of the same political party.

If their certificate differs from that of the State officers their candidate is to be seated. If the opposing candidate appeals it must be to the Circuit Judge, who is consequently a returning officer. The decision of the Judge is to be conclusive with the Clerk of the House. The arrangements for counting in Republicans are perfect.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

N. J. Auxier, Bart Belcher, C. T. Yost, D. J. Wolford and W. B. Stepp were last week admitted to the practice of law in Pike county.

The Phoenix Powder Mills, at Kellogg, W. Va., five in number, blew up Sunday for the fifth time in two years. No one was in the mills at the time but the watchmen, and they escaped. A young woman in her home half a mile away was badly hurt by a flying fragment. The loss was about $15,000. The explosion was heard at this place, nearly thirty miles distant.

ASHLAND: C. G. Shultz, a former resident of the Big Sandy Valley, but who now resides on East Carter avenue, this city, is the possessor of a most interesting relic of the famous Hatfield-McCoy vendetta. It is the Winchester rifle that was owned by that famous outlaw, Ellis Hatfield, and the weapon with which he murdered Ellen McCoy while she was trying to save her aged parents from death at the hands of the ruffians. The stock of the gun bears the imprint of a Winchester ball which shot Hatfield's right hand off while holding the gun ready to fire.

"Cub" Isaacs, a noted Knott county desperado, who is accused of killing a number of Knott county people, and who has been a fugitive from justice for the past two years has been arrested in Johnson county. The Paintsville Courier says that Isaacs is a member of the Caleb Jones faction, and has had several encounters with Talton Hall, the noted desperado, who was recently hanged at Gladesville Va.

Burned to Death.

The wife of Gordon Williams was burned to death at her home at Eden, Martin county, on last Tuesday. Her clothes caught fire while she was alone, in a manner unknown to any person, and her entire body was literally roasted. The occurrence took place about 9 o'clock a. m., and she died in horrible agony a few hours afterward. Physicians were called but could do her no good. She was a good christian woman, and leaves a husband and one daughter, who mourn the loss of a good wife and devoted mother.

Filling The Appointment.

Some time ago C. T. Caldwell gave out the word that Rev. "Bud" Smith would come down into this county, before the election and induce a number of his Democratic friends, relatives and fellow members in the Southern Methodist Church to vote for Caldwell for Congress. Friday Rev. "Bud" arrived in town and while he said nothing to any one here about voting for Caldwell, he did not deny that he had come for that purpose. He got poor encouragement here. Several prominent members of the Southern Methodist Church gave him some straight plain talk. They gave him to understand that when he quitted his ministerial work to go out and try to influence Democrats to vote for a Republican for Congress, they thought he was engaged in a very small business.

The Southern Methodist Church in this county has no use for Caldwell as a candidate for Congress and Rev. Smith will make no votes for him nor for friends for himself by working for him in Wayne county.—Wayne (W. Va.) News.

Sylvester Adams was shot and instantly killed and his nephew, Oscar Adams, seriously wounded by I. D. Bennett at Willard last Saturday. The cause leading to the tragedy was a quarrel between the Adamses and Bennett over the right of way. Their teams met in a narrow road and could only with the utmost difficulty pass.

Words led to blows. The Adamses seized clubs and were beating Bennett unmercifully, when he drew his revolver and fired. The first shot penetrated the old man Adams' heart and he fell dead. Bennett then turned his revolver upon Oscar, whom he seriously wounded. Bennett, covered with blood, went to a store in Willard and purchased some cartridges. He then fled to the woods. Sylvester Adams was sixty-four years of age and highly respected. Bennett was a tobacco grower from Owen county, and recently purchased land in this county.

When you pay your taxes to Jack Wilson you have the assurance that every cent due the county and state will be turned over to the proper authorities promptly. Then support Jack Wilson for Sheriff and take no risk.

They Have Tried It.

The people of West Virginia know from experience what a Force bill is. Under what was called a State registration law, the Republican Governor, Boreman, did, in 1869, go to Washington City in person and procure a company of New York troops (yes, New York troops) to be sent to West Virginia to aid in the perpetuation of the republican rule in that State. Under the National Force bill recommended by the Minneapolis Convention the ballot-box will in every state be surrounded by Federal soldiers as a means of perpetuating the rule of the sectional Republican party.—Richmond Dispatch.

The Force Bill is an issue.

Congressman T. H. Paynter of our town, being a candidate for reelection, therefore we are more than usually interested in national politics. Mr. Paynter has many warm friends among the opposition, and no doubt will carry his home county in this election by a land some majority. This will be his third term in congress, a unanimous nomination having been given him this last time, something never before accorded to any man in this district. This was in recognition partly of his services in having redeemed the district after it had been carried three times in succession by the Republicans. The whole district recognizes his ability and usefulness to it, and will compliment him with a majority of not less than 3,000.—Greenup Cor., Portsmouth Times.

Jack Wilson will perform the duties of the office of Sheriff even better during another term than in the past—although that has been perfectly satisfactory. The more experience a man has the better qualified he becomes. Vote for A. J. Wilson.

GENTLEMEN: I never lose an opportunity to recommend Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine to any one afflicted with nervous complaints with the assurance that it will not disappoint them. When our boy was eighteen months old he was attacked with six spasms a day. He would have five or six spasms in a single day. We tried many remedies without success. Finally our doctor recommended Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We tried a bottle, and could not see that he was benefited from the first dose. We used three bottles, and I am happy to say the child was ENTIRELY CURED. We used no other remedy, and his cure is complete. He is now three years old and perfectly healthy.
